North York General Hospital (NYGH), affiliated with the University of Toronto, is one of Canada's leading community academic hospitals, offering the diverse community a wide range of acute care, ambulatory and long-term care services across multiple sites. Through partnerships, collaboration and academic endeavours, NYGH seeks to set new standards for people-centred care. Working together with patients and their families, they are making a world of difference. NYGH has provided exceptional care experience for patients and their families, since 1968.

The hospital partners with 50 different academic institutions, including the University of Toronto, to prepare future physicians, nurses and other health care professionals to work in interprofessional teams, providing essential care in a community hospital setting. Today, 380 North York General physicians have faculty appointments at the University of Toronto. Each year, over 1500 students come to NYGH learn and develop their clinical skills.

Staff, physicians and volunteers have a history of transforming health care to better serve patients. They are leaders who adopt the most innovative health information technology, strategists who carefully chart patient flow and find ways to reduce wait times, and visionaries who dream of, and work towards, the ideal patient experience. From boardroom to bedside, NYGH goes above and beyond to offer the best and safest care, putting patients first.
